Charity ride raises record $3.9 million

More than 13,000 cyclists and inline skaters took over two major Toronto arteries yesterday as they raised a record $3.9 million for heart and stroke research. That's $600,000 more than was collected in last year's Becel Heart & Stroke Ride for Heart fundraiser. More coverage, page 4.

Leukemia cure quest step closer

Mutant genes first major discovery by Toronto-based global research consortium

The world's largest cancer research initiative, which is being led out of Toronto, has made its first major discovery.

Researchers have found four genetic mutations behind the most common type of leukemia affecting Canadian adults, findings that could eventually help in diagnosing and treating the disease.

The discovery was made by researchers in Spain, but may not have happened and certainly would not have happened as quickly without the help of the International Cancer Genome Consortium, headquartered in the MaRS building on College Street, said Dr. Tom Hudson, co-founder of the organization and president of the Ontario Institute for Cancer Research.

"Finding the drivers (that cause cancer cells to multiply) is like finding a needle in a haystack."
DR. TOM HUDSON, PRESIDENT OF THE ONTARIO INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

"We definitely sped it up," he said.

The consortium is composed of researchers from 13 countries who are sharing information and working collaboratively to map 25,000 cancer genomes.

Three years into a 10-year mandate, the consortium has so far gathered data on 3,000 of 25,000 cancer genomes, with research on the four leukemia genetic mutations being the most advanced.

Fort York hosts first ever Ultimate Block Party

The first ever Ultimate Block Party took place at historic Fort York yesterday, presented by Fort York National Historic Site and the Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario. Numerous stations, manned by teams of volunteers, had kids participating in everything from story time to Lego construction to tutu dancing to Hula Hooping. Admission was free.

Residents steam over plant

A permit has recently been issued to build a power plant on a site just west of Sherway Gardens mall ◐ OMB OK'd plant in 2007, but one resident says he thought the plan was dead

Some Mississauga residents are furious to hear a building permit has been issued to construct a gas-fired power plant in an environmentally sensitive area.

The 280-megawatt plant is to be built at the Toronto-Mississauga line on a site that backs onto Etobicoke Creek, just west of the Sherway Gardens mall.

"I was shocked when I heard the permit was issued," said Dr. Boyd Upper, a resident who has fought the project for years.

Residents had thought the plan was dead because nothing had happened since 2007, when Eastern Power Ltd. won the right to build it in an Ontario Municipal Board ruling that went against the city.

Stephen Thompson, a member of CHiP (Concerned Homeowners for Intelligent Power) says he is upset with the province and Mississauga leaders. "Coun. (Jim) Tovey promised us he would keep an eye on anything moving forward at city hall.

"He didn't say a word about this to us. We found out after the permit was issued (last) week.

"And why hasn't (Mayor) Hazel (McCallion) made one public statement against the project? She made plenty of statements against the Oakville plant."

"There was no activity for years ... Residents assumed the project went away."

DR. BOYD UPPER, A RESIDENT WHO HAS FOUGHT THE PROJECT FOR YEARS

In 2007, right after the OMB decision, McCallion told the Toronto Star: "I have always felt and still feel that it is the wrong location," adding the city would appeal it if there were grounds to do so.

The province backed down on building the 900-megawatt gas-fired Oakville plant after residents mounted fierce opposition to the project, which would have been close to a residential area, much like the Mississauga plant.

Cyclists raise record $3.9M

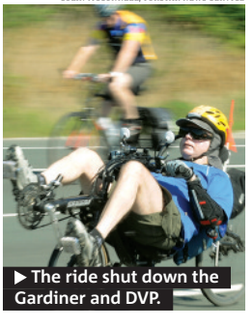
COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE



▶ The ride shut down the Gardiner and DVP.

More than 13,000 cyclists and inline skaters took over two major Toronto arteries yesterday as they raised a record $3.9 million for heart and stroke research.

That’s $600,000 more than was collected in last year’s Becel Heart & Stroke Ride for Heart fundraiser.

The participants, including some kids on training wheels, pedalled along the Gardiner Expressway and the Don Valley Parkway, which were closed to traffic for the 24th annual event.

For those who strapped on their helmets, the weather co-operated for the first time in a few years.

“It was great. It was a perfect day for it, not too warm and very bright and sunny,” said Dr. Marco Di Buono, director of research for the Heart & Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

“A lot of fun, with all the people on the course wearing T-shirts and screaming in support of the people they’re riding for or outlining the people they were riding in honour of,” he said.

Heart and stroke are the leading causes of death among Canadians, Di Buono said. There’s nothing a person can do about risk factors such as age and gender, he noted.

But they can change “unhealthy eating, low levels of activity, high blood pressure, smoking” and other factors that increase the risk of heart disease and high stress levels, he said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Community unites to find lost dog

Almost five months after Joan Milburn’s dog disappeared in Whitby, searchers still hope to find and bring Chelsea home.

The two-year-old Bernese mountain dog went missing in January. Since then, Milburn has been out every day searching food stations and the woods near her home.

The disappearance has sparked an ongoing community effort that has touched Milburn to the core. “I’m amazed at the number of people, strangers, who are looking for a dog they never knew,” she said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

OVERTIME WIN SPELLS DOWNTOWN PARTY

HOME ICE ADVANTAGE

The combination of a weekend game and sun brought out the crowds in Vancouver Saturday night.

Police estimated more than 70,000 people — many carrying home-made Stanley Cups of varying degrees of sophistication — flooded the city's downtown to watch the game and celebrate Vancouver's 3-2 overtime win over Boston.

The number was almost double the 40,000 people who celebrated downtown on a soggy Wednesday after Game 1.

Fans have been using YouTube to show their support, among them parodies of Cee Lo Green's Forget You and Rebecca Black's Friday.

Three men in hospital after stabbing incidents

Two men in their 30s were sent to hospital after being stabbed outside a nightclub at 33 Beverly Hills Dr. near Jane Street and Wilson Avenue, police said.

A 30-year-old man was initially thought to be in life-threatening condition after being stabbed in the back. His injuries have since been downgraded to non-life-threatening.

The other man, in his mid-30s, was slashed in the face and is in non-life-threatening condition.

Meanwhile, a 17-year-old was stabbed multiple times overnight at Eglinton Avenue East and Markham Road, police said. The man was rushed to hospital with two stab wounds to the stomach and one to the face. Police said he is in critical but non-life-threatening condition. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Chilean volcano erupts

Located nearly 1,000 kilometres south of the capital, Santiago Authorities evacuate about 3,500 people

A volcano in the Caulle Cordon of southern Chile erupted violently, billowing smoke and ash high into the sky, prompting evacuations and forcing cancellation of flights. Ash and gas continued to billow from the Earth yesterday.

There were no reports of injuries from Saturday's eruption.

A column of gas 10 kilometres high and five kilometres wide rose from Puyehue-Cordon Caulle complex, according to Chile's National Geology and Mining Service.

Rodrigo Ubilla, Chile's undersecretary of labour, said some people near the volcano had decided not to leave their homes because they didn't want to abandon their animals.

Wind carried ash across the Andes to Argentina, dusting the tourist town of San Carlos de Bariloche, which had to close its airport. Officials there urged people to cover their mouths and noses against the ash, to stock up on food and water and stay indoors if possible.

Israel blames Syria for clash

Syria deflecting attention from domestic unrest, general says 20 dead as Israel battles pro-Palestinian protesters

Israeli troops yesterday battled hundreds of pro-Palestinian protesters who tried to burst across Syria's frontier with the Golan Heights, killing a reported 20 people and wounding scores more in the second outbreak of deadly violence in the border area in less than a month.

The clashes, marking the anniversary of the Arab defeat in the 1967 Mideast war, drew Israeli accusations that Syria was orchestrating the violence to shift attention away from a bloody crackdown on opposition protests at home. The marchers, who had organized on Facebook, passed by Syrian and UN outposts on their way to the front lines.

"The Syrian government is trying to create a provocation," said Israel's chief military spokesman, Brig.-Gen. Yoav Mordechai. "This border has been quiet for decades, but only now with all the unrest in Syrian towns is there an attempt to draw attention to the border."

Human rights groups say President Bashar Assad's forces killed at least 25 people in northern Syria over the weekend, and another 65 activists were killed Friday in the central city of Hama, as anti-government protests spread through the country demanding his resignation.

There was no Syrian comment on why the protesters were allowed to storm the border, apparently undisturbed by authorities. But Syria's state-run media portrayed the event as a spontaneous uprising of Palestinian youths from a nearby refugee camp.

Until last month, Syria has steadfastly kept its border with Israel quiet for nearly 40 years, fuelling the Israeli accusations that Syria was trying to draw attention away from the months of protests that have left more than 1,200 Syrians dead.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Border protest

- After nightfall yesterday, Syria's state TV said there would be an open-ended sit-in at the border, and thousands more protesters were on their way.
- The protests began around 11 a.m. with what appeared to be several dozen youths brought in on buses.
- By evening, the crowd had swelled to more than 1,000 people in an uneasy standoff with Israeli troops.
- A small group of youths cut through a coil of barbed wire and took up positions in a trench inside a buffer zone about 20 metres from a final border fence. Israeli troops periodically opened fire at young activists jumping into the ditch.
- As the standoff stretched into the evening, Israeli forces fired heavy barrages of tear gas to break up the crowds. Hundreds of people fled the area in panic, while some 20 people laying on the ground received treatment. It was not immediately clear whether the crowd would return to the front lines.

▶ Demonstrators flee Israeli-fired tear gas yesterday as they gather along Syria's border with Israel while trying to cut through a line of barbed wire and head into the Israeli-annexed Golan Heights, as seen from the Druze village of Majdal Shams, in Israel. Israeli troops opened fire on protesters from Syria who tried to cross a ceasefire line in the occupied Golan Heights. The conflict comes on the 44th anniversary of the 1967 Six Day War.

Palestinian refugees since 1948

The recent protests are designed to draw attention to the plight of Palestinian refugees who fled or were expelled from their homes during Israel's war of independence in 1948. The original refugees, and their descendants, now number several million, and they demand "the right to return" to the families' former properties.

Israel says a return of these people would spell the end of the country as a Jewish state, and says they should be resettled in a future Palestinian state alongside Israel.

Around half a million Palestinian refugees live across 13 camps in Syria, a country with a population of 23 million. Palestinians are allowed to work and study in government and private schools, but they do not have citizenship and cannot vote.

Facebook birthday invite goes viral, with 15,000 confirmed attending
More than 1,500 show up even though girl's parents cancelled party

Better check your Facebook settings before posting a party invitation online.

A teenage girl in Germany who forgot to mark her birthday invitation as private on Facebook fled her own party when more than 1,500 guests showed up and around 100 police officers, some on horses, were needed to keep the crowd under control.

Eleven people were temporarily detained, one police officer was injured, dozens of girls wearing flip-flops cut their feet on broken glass and firefighters had to extinguish two small fires at the 16th birthday party in Hamburg, police spokesman Mirko Streiber said yesterday.

The birthday girl, identified only as Thessa, went into hiding, Streiber said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Organic sprouts blamed in outbreak

The terrifying E. coli outbreak in Europe appears to have been caused by vegetable sprouts grown in Germany, an agriculture official said yesterday as the toll climbed to at least 22 dead and more than 2,200 sickened.

Preliminary tests found that bean sprouts and other sprout varieties from an organic farm in the Uelzen area, between the northern cities of Hamburg and Hannover, could be connected to infected people in five German states, Lower Saxony Agriculture Minister Gert Lindemann said.

12 Sprouts have been implicated in previous E. coli outbreaks, including one in Japan, where radish sprouts killed 12 people and reportedly sickened more than 12,000 others in 1996.

"There were more and more indications in the last few hours that put the focus on this farm," Lindemann said at a news conference. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Air Canada launched service from Billy Bishop airport May 1, a move expected to improve airport revenue.

Billy Bishop Airport poised to take off

◐ Noise barriers, wetland fish habitat among planned improvements ◐ Air Canada's return to push growth

Profits have soared at Toronto's Billy Bishop Airport.

The lakefront facility's $12.5-million operational profit in 2010 helped elevate the Toronto Port Authority's revenue to a record since the authority was founded in 1999.

A "tremendous milestone" is how the port authority board's chairman, Mark McQueen, described the banner year that saw an overall net income of $7.1 million for 2010 after expenses and taxes are taken into account for the airport, outer harbour marina and the port authority. The authority's 2009 net profit was $1.34 million.

"After we pay royalties to Ottawa and taxes to city hall, every profit dollar is reinvested in the business."
MARK MCQUEEN, TORONTO PORT AUTHORITY BOARD'S CHAIRMAN

McQueen attributed the increased net income last year to a combination of the popularity of the downtown airport, tight cost control and improved economic growth across the GTA.

Billy Bishop Airport was the jewel in the port authority's crown last year as it produced total revenues of $23.3 million, more than double the previous year.

The airport's revenue growth is expected to continue this year as passenger numbers are likely to increase with Porter Airlines adding more flight destinations combined with Air Canada's recent return to the facility.

With an environment assessment completed and government approval yet to be granted, a proposed pedestrian tunnel is expected to contribute to growth of the airport.

Report claims feds hoarding copyrights

In 2009, more than 2,100 patents and copyrights by outside contracts held by government departments

Departments and agencies are hoarding hundreds of patents and copyrights, violating the federal government's rules on intellectual property, says a new report.

For more than 10 years, federal policy has been to assign contractors the rights to any intellectual property produced during their work for departments and agencies. For example, a software company that writes a computer program under a federal contract can retain the copyright and sell the program. The policy, implemented in 2000, says only in exceptional circumstances should Ottawa retain a patent or copyright — largely because the private sector is best positioned to exploit it commercially.

A new report found that too many patents and other intellectual properties are winding up in government hands. In 2009, 59 per cent of the intellectual property generated by outside contracts was snapped up by government departments.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Protocol

- The 2011 report found few departments were applying to the Treasury Board to allow them to retain patents or copyrights.
- It says Canadian rules are being widely ignored.
- It also criticized the Treasury Board and Industry Canada for failing to monitor departments' adherence to the policy.

Flaherty set to revisit budget

In a way, it will go down as the ultimate budget leak.

When Finance Minister Jim Flaherty stands up in the House of Commons today to deliver the government's fiscal plan for the upcoming year, Canadians could be forgiven for thinking they have heard it before.

They have. As Flaherty has repeatedly said since his party won its first majority May 2, he intends to bring back essentially the same document he unveiled two months ago, which all three opposition parties rejected.

Taking what remains of the drama out of the process, Flaherty has also unveiled the two major changes he does intend to bring in — setting aside about $2.2 billion for Quebec's adoption of the harmonized sales tax, and beginning the process of phasing out political party financing.

"Basically, this is the March 22 budget with a couple of additions from the platform," the minister said recently. Officials have also let it be known there will be few surprises, if any, reducing the usual all-day lock-up for reporters to a slim two hours.

Move over, Oxford, there's a new school in town

A group of prominent British academics said yesterday they are starting a private university in London to rival the country's elite institutions in Oxford and Cambridge.

The New College of the Humanities will be led by AC Grayling, a renowned philosophy professor, and the faculty will include Richard Dawkins, an evolutionary biologist and successful author, economics professor and writer Niall Ferguson, and other prominent educators.

It will be a relatively small university boasting at least one teacher for every 10 students and offering one-to-one tutorials and extensive contact between teachers and students, officials said.

In a message posted yesterday on the new university's website, Grayling said graduates would be ready to make "an immediate contribution in business, government, media or the arts."

He also said college staff would help arrange internships.

Greyling said that "a significant number" of scholarships would be awarded.

The new college has started accepting admissions applications, with classes expected to begin in October 2012.

LIA GRAINGER/FOR METRO

▶ Snakes and Lattes owners Ben Castanie and Aurelia Peynet stand in front of the café's games wall.

GO DIRECTLY TO GAMES

URBAN COMPASS

LIA GRAINGER
METRO TORONTO

It's 11:30 on a Saturday night and Snakes and Lattes is packed. This is prime partying time, but these youthful late-night revellers have come to this Bloor Street West café not for the music or dancing, but for the board games.

"To watch someone rediscover a favourite game is really something else," says Aurelia Peynet. She and partner and co-owner Ben Castanie are seated in front of the towering wall of board games — nearly 2,000 — that make up the café's impressive collection.

Peynet and Castanie moved to Canada from France five years ago and each left their respective careers — he was a consultant, she a teacher — to open Snakes and Lattes last August. They were inspired by similar cafés in Europe, where board game culture is considerably more mainstream. They also drew inspiration from toy lending libraries, a European concept that is exactly what it sounds like — a library that lends toys.

"We loved the idea of making these games available to everyone," Castanie says. Once they had settled on the concept, the couple set to work building their collection, scouring garage sales, thrift stores and flea markets.

Today, the collection includes strategy games (Settlers of Catan), word games (Boggle), family games (Madagascar), adult games (Dirty Minds), party games (Headbanz) and many more that defy the shop's elaborate sorting system. And for only $5, you can sit from opening until closing (sometimes as late as 4 a.m.) and play to your heart's content.

With so much on offer, many patrons choose to try something new. But figuring out a new game can be agonizing if you're reading the rules off the box. At Snakes and Lattes, that's never a problem. There's always a "game guru" on hand: A staff expert that can explain when to roll the dice, take a card or skip a turn for pretty much every game.

But do people really want to spend their time and money playing games?

"Oh, absolutely," Castanie says. "We've turned a profit since Day 1."

It's true: Whether it's families on a Friday afternoon or the college crew that rolls in at night, Snakes and Lattes is consistently packed with gamers, all scheming and strategizing over a pastime as old-fashioned and wholesome as it is straight-up fun.

Breaking down barriers of Shakespeare's work

NEWS WORTH SHARING

Media will always have to report on the tough stuff.

But we know Canada is full of compassionate individuals, inspiring projects and stories worth celebrating.

Here is just one.

A collective of young, professionally trained actors from across Canada is teaming up to perform monologues and vignettes from plays like A Midsummer Night's Dream and Taming of the Shrew in hospitals and senior residences across the GTA.

Victoria Urquhart, artistic/executive director of the Spur-of-the-Moment-Shakespeare Collective, says, "There are a lot of wonderful people who aren't able to leave the hospital. And after being there for a while they get the feeling of being shut in. (With Shakespeare in Hospitals) we are bringing them outside."

The collective of artists is dedicated to breaking down barriers to Shakespearean text and making the Bard's work more accessible.

Check the collective out at twitter.com/shakespur.

Now they are taking the shirt off his back

Thousands of buyers vied for items that once belonged to convicted swindler Bernard Madoff, with 14 pairs of his underwear going for $200 US and a photograph of a naked rear end selling for $4,600.

The Miami Herald reported the U.S. Marshals Service held the auction Saturday in Miami Beach.

Some bidders, like Mike Burd of Long Island, N.Y., planned to resell the goods for profit on eBay. Others, like North Miami online retailer Rich Kroll, simply wanted a piece of history.

The mostly household goods brought in more than $400,000, which will go toward compensating victims of Madoff's $65-billion Ponzi scheme. Madoff pleaded guilty and is serving a 150-year prison sentence.

HAVE YOU SEEN ADS LIKE THIS?

"MONEY PROBLEMS?"

"CREDIT PROBLEMS? Pay NO interest"

"Reduce your debt by up to 80%"

Do they sound too good to be true? That's because they are only telling you HALF OF THE STORY! The procedure you are being sold is called a consumer proposal and may ONLY be administered by a licenced trustee in bankruptcy. After you pay these "consultants" a fee – hundreds, sometimes thousands of dollars – they refer you to a trustee to actually do the work (their ads don't tell you that).

Before you sign any forms, before you pay any fees, "google" consumer proposals and see for yourself…

In order for a consumer proposal to be accepted you need to offer your creditors:

1) More money than they would get if you filed for bankrutpcy; and
2) Enough money to make it "worth your creditors time" – currently that is around 1/3 of what you owe

There's no mystery, there's no clever deals or negotiation going on. These guys never actually speak to your creditors. So why are you paying them a fee?

The choice is yours – if after you speak to a trustee, you still think there's a reason to use one of these "consulting" firms then go ahead – to date, we've never heard of anyone going back once they hear the whole story…

Still not convinced? Their first meeting is free – before you go back a second time and start paying their fees give us a call. We'll walk you through all of your options and then you can decide what's best for you and your family.

One more thing – there are NO upfront fees to file a consumer proposal – if someone wants you to pay a fee BEFORE they file your paperwork then you aren't dealing with the right people!

Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?

- 19-year-old Tyler Posey gets some big claws and fangs for his role in Teen Wolf
- TV show has little in common with the original Michael J. Fox film from the 1980s

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

▶ Tyler Posey stars in a new MTV show Teen Wolf. The show airs Sunday nights on MuchMusic.

There's just something about Tyler Posey that makes people think of werewolves. Not only is he leading MTV's new, darker series version of Teen Wolf, but 19-year-old California native was also considered for the role of shape-changing Jacob Black in the Twilight films — a role that eventually went to Taylor Lautner.

"I guess, according to MTV, I have a lupine look, which I had no idea what that meant. Does anyone know what that means?" Posey asks, before being given the definition. "Wolf-like? I had no idea what that meant. But yeah, I have a 'lupine' look." Which is not to say Posey is a particularly hirsute young man. "I shaved 18 days ago," he jokes. "I grow no hair. I just look like a wolf. Dark and handsome."

In fact, if he could take on any of his werewolf alter-ego's abilities, it wouldn't be the increased speed, strength or senses, he admits. "I'd like to grow hair. On my face," he says. "My werewolf grows big, crazy muttonchops. But he grows it and then it just goes away. That's the power I want. I can just grow whatever I want and bring it in whenever I want. Why not?"

Posey is quick to point out this Teen Wolf doesn't have a lot in common with the original film — which came out before Posey and most of its target audience were born — including how his character looks during a full moon.

"The big movie I really looked at for inspiration was Wolf with Jack Nicholson, because it's totally our genre," he says. "It's funny, there's romance in it, and his wolf looks a lot more like ours. It's more smooth and … was it sexy? I don't want to call Jack Nicholson sexy. But he is."

While other actors might be canceling their Internet service to avoid reading scathing message board rants — which Teen Wolf was generating long before its premiere — Posey refuses to hide.

"I like hearing reviews, I like hearing what people have to say," he says. "I want to keep track of the show, see what people think. Nothing deters me. If people say bad reviews, it's just like, I like the show. That's what matters, right?"

Besides, Posey knows he has supporters, since he interacts with them as much as possible. "I'm Twittering like crazy," he says. "I'm pretty good with trying to stay in contact with my fans. Like, every single person that talks to me I try to message back. That's one of my favourite things about Twitter, just being so personal with your fans. I think it's so cool. I don't know, I just like it. I feel like I can change the world. And I'm going to, damn it, one tweet at a time."

Spike TV honours Richards

Fresh from leading the Cannes jury, Robert De Niro found himself on stage at the Guys Choice Awards praising Keith Richards' "big brass balls" and telling an audience that Sean Penn peaked with Fast Times at Ridgemont High.

De Niro played the dirty-mouthed elder statesman at Saturday night's Spike TV honours, a sort of brash, puerile younger brother to the MTV Movie Awards, which aired on that network last night.

Like that show, the Guys Choice stage on the Sony lot was populated by Hollywood types with something to promote — mostly summer movies.

Justin Timberlake leered at his Friends With Benefits co-star Mila Kunis as she took the Holy Grail of Hot trophy, while his Bad Teacher co-star Cameron Diaz kicked off the show with a monologue.

Mr. Popper's Penguins star Jim Carrey shared an unprintable story about how he became a funnyman through a painful encounter with an uncle.

"I'm actually kind of a geek that way when I come out to these things," Carrey said backstage. "It's half to just be creative and do some crazy, blow-out thing and half because I like seeing people that are in my business. Kind of cool."

Richards took the night's final honour, a lifetime achievement trophy previously given to the likes of Clint Eastwood. He hoisted the Brass Balls award, which resembles a giant dumbbell with spheres on two sides.

"I mean, I've had a few awards in my time," the rock legend said backstage. "With the balls it's like where to put them? It's easy to pick them up but where are you going to put them? I've got to figure that out with the wife."

Penn led a Fast Times reunion onstage, joined by Forest Whitaker, Judge Reinhold and other cast members.

Mark Wahlberg was named Guy of the Year and his Oscar-nominated The Fighter took Guy Movie of the Year.

But backstage, Wahlberg was excited about another project, a still-in-development street basketball story that would star him and Justin Bieber in the teen pop star's first dramatic role.

The Guys Choice Awards will air Friday on Spike TV.

Green is still not a cheery Colour

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Dallas Green

Dallas Green as self-critical as ever despite success of City and Colour

With a polished third disc ready for release and some prestigious recent gigs behind him, Dallas Green appears poised for an international breakthrough.

But the artist known as City and Colour doesn't want his fans to worry. The troubled troubadour isn't in danger of cheering up anytime soon.

"I'm still the same old guy I've always been," Green said during a recent interview in Toronto. "I still write songs about how I have no faith in myself — it's never going to change.

"It can be very funny but a lot of times it can be really horrifying. When you're sleeping next to someone who all of a sudden wakes up and starts screaming, doesn't know where they are."

DALLAS GREEN, ON HIS WIFE LEAH MILLER'S FREQUENT NIGHTMARES, WHICH PROVIDED THE INFLUENCE FOR HIS SONG FRAGILE BIRD

"And maybe that's better, because no matter how many times I play at (Toronto's) Massey Hall or Royal Albert Hall (in London), or how many records (I sell) whatever, I still think I can do better and still want to be better, more so for myself than anyone else.

"Having those big experiences just makes me like recess back further into the hole that I'm in that makes me want to get better."

Yet that last comment does not mean that Green, with an ever-growing contingent of fans waiting on his music, is shying away from personal material.

In fact, on Green's third solo disc, Little Hell — out Tuesday — the 30-year-old includes enough critically intimate details of his life to make an oversharing reality TV star blush.

He delves into his wife's nightmares, into the way he relates to his parents, into fleeting moments of relationship-related despair and into the mental-health struggles endured by his sister.

He says writing about his innermost feelings is not new for him, but he continues to strive for universality even in his most personal pieces.

"When I write songs like that ... I guess I think I write them in a relatable enough way that anyone who's been through something with someone they love, you can easily listen to that song and just replace the word 'sister' with brother, mother, father, or uncle, aunt, anything."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Platinum plus?

- Each of Green's previous two independently released solo projects (2005's Sometimes and 2008's Bring Me Your Love) were certified platinum in Canada.
- Some have already made the not-so-bold prediction that Green could build on those returns with his third effort, which is set for release on Tuesday.
- London's Independent newspaper, for instance, mused in its recent four-star review of his live performance that Little Hell was "likely to provide his true coming-of-age."
- But Green says he doesn't take such praise to heart. "You get to the point where you start believing the hype and you lose that buffer zone where you can tell if something that you wrote is (bad) or not," he said. "Because if everyone likes it, then you think, Oh geez, I can do no wrong."

Illness forces Adele to cancel tour dates

British singer Adele has cancelled the remaining dates on her North American tour because of her laryngitis.

In a statement Friday, Adele said she was "really frustrated" but "there is absolutely nothing I can do but take the doctor's advice and rest some more."

The announcement came days after the singer postponed five dates on the tour. She is now cancelling the nine remaining shows.

The 23-year-old's sophomore album, 21, is the bestselling album of the year. It has sold close to two million units in America.

Her single, Rolling In the Deep, is currently No. 1 on Billboard's Hot 100 charts.

The statement also said that rescheduling the tour dates was "being investigated."

Arcade film not intended as political statement: Band

Arcade Fire has long held a reputation for seriousness, whether it's the Montreal band's carefully contemplated music, their politics or their unwaveringly independent ethos.

So it's perhaps not surprising that the stark images in the band's new Spike Jonze-directed short film Scenes from the Suburbs — in which shadowy military characters at one point execute a civilian on a pristine suburban street — are being interpreted as a statement on the military, or U.S. border security, or the suburbs themselves.

But really, the band's Will Butler says they were just having fun making a short film influenced by the sci-fi adventure movies they grew up watching.

"No, I think it starts with the genre, like: 'Let's make a dystopian movie,'" Butler corrected.

"It wasn't like: 'The world is going to hell, and this is the hell we'll be in in 25 years.' It was more like, let's make a sci-fi movie. Oh, what's a plausible path that this could take?"

"But really, we want some guys with guns in the future."

PATRICK SEMANSKY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Members of Arcade Fire perform at the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival in May.

Indeed, Scenes from the Suburbs — which is screening at the CFC Worldwide Short Films Festival this week in Toronto and will then be included as part of a deluxe version of the Montreal band's third album The Suburbs on August 2 — is a sci-fi puzzler that seems to blend the paranoia of Terry Gilliam films with the nostalgia of classic Steven Spielberg flicks.

The nearly 30-minute film fills in some of the gaps in the shorter version of the music video for The Suburbs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rodriguez back to his first love

Alex Rodriguez dumps Cameron Diaz ◗ Says he 'needs to focus on baseball' ◗ Source says Diaz went overboard trying to please him

Cameron Diaz and Alex Rodriguez have called it quits, according to Perez Hilton, and Diaz is reportedly none too thrilled about it.

"They've broken up," a source says. "[Cameron is] hurt and betrayed, because she tried so hard to please him. She went overboard."

According to Page Six, Rodriguez instigated the split, telling Diaz "that he needs to focus on baseball and that's all there is to it," according to a source. "He thought she would be an easy girlfriend. But then she pushed for more of a commitment, and he told her to cool it." METRO

▶ "Education in online spaces is absolutely crucial for younger people," says Zack Whittaker, a criminologist and blogger for iGeneration.

Kids on Facebook?

Mark Zuckerberg recently said, if he could, he'd open up the site to children under 13 Zack Whittaker, a criminologist and blogger for iGeneration, weighs in on the controversy

You wrote that you're against children on Facebook. Why is that site different from MySpace or MSN messenger, where kids can befriend random screen names?
Well, as Facebook draws in over 500 million users worldwide, it is natural for the site to attract the most attention. While others sites should not bask in the heat Facebook feels with pressure from privacy advocacy groups, there is no difference between a seemingly random screen name on MSN/Windows Live and using a fake name on Facebook. Identity goes further than simply the name we use or details we hand over.

As a criminologist, what do you feel is the most effective way to stop predators? Or to catch them?
This insidious relationship we have with online predatory behaviour is ubiquitous across sites involving children. Online sex offenders should be restricted from using social networks, but this simply prevents online reoffending. The balance should be maintained between children's access to offenders as well as offenders' access to children. A bipartite arrangement should be enforced, with children of a certain age — say 13 and upwards, as Facebook has as its current policy — are allowed on social networking sites, but with a restricted panel of privacy settings to prevent automatic disclosure of a child's information.

But how do we institute laws without violating privacy?
It is an immensely difficult balance to strike. Unfortunately, it is only for criminologists and sociologists to debate, and for respective parliaments, assemblies, congresses and legislators alike to implement. Privacy should be the foremost point for the minds of those constructing laws. If freedom of expression and speech can align with privacy — something the United States holds better than its British cousins — then we are at least one step in the right direction.

Should there be stricter guidelines for opening up a social media account?
Yes, in that it would prevent spam accounts from being created — formed from fake names that water down the concentrated social experience for the rest of users. Equally no, in that the less information there is about users online, the less chance that social media companies can misuse private user information, as Facebook has shown to do before.

Grilling for veggie lovers

Vegetables can get lost among the burgers and steaks These recipes for Grilled Salad & Veggie Orzo Salad let vegetarians fire up their grills

THE CANADIAN PRESS HO/ FOODLAND ONTARIO

▶ This recipe makes six servings.

This salad is fresh tasting, colourful, simple to prepare and sure to become a seasonal favourite. Grilling fresh asparagus and peppers brings out their natural sweetness, making the flavours more intense.

Ingredients:

- 500 g (1 lb) asparagus, trimmed
- 2 sweet peppers, seeded and quartered
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) olive oil
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) each salt and pepper
- 325 ml (1 1/3 cups) orzo pasta
- 75 ml (1/3 cup) chopped sun-dried tomatoes
- 5 ml (1 tsp) grated lemon rind
- 20 ml (4 tsp) lemon juice
- 10 ml (2 tsp) liquid honey
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) crumbled feta cheese
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) each chopped fresh chives and dill
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) pine nuts (optional)

Preparation:

1. In a bowl, toss together asparagus, peppers, 15 ml (1 tbsp) of oil, salt and pepper. Place veggies on greased grill over medium-high heat; close lid and grill, turning occasionally, until tender-crisp and lightly charred, 5 to 8 minutes. Return to bowl and let cool. Cut into bite-size pieces.
2. In a large pot of boiling salted water, cook orzo for 7 minutes. Stir in sun-dried tomatoes; cook for 1 minute. Drain and rinse with cold water. Drain again and place in serving bowl. Stir in grilled vegetables.
3. In a bowl, combine lemon rind, lemon juice and honey; whisk in remaining oil. Pour over orzo mix. Add cheese, chives and dill; toss to coat. Sprinkle with pine nuts, if using.

Grilled Salad

Start to finish: 30 mins.
Makes: 10 servings

Ingredients:

- 500 ml (2 cups or 1 pint) cherry or grape tomatoes
- Olive oil
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 1 lemon, halved
- 1 lime, halved
- 3 hearts of romaine lettuce, halved lengthwise

Preparation:

1. Heat covered grill on high. Meanwhile, cut 2 sections of foil about 35 cm (14 inches) in length. Place half of the tomatoes in centre of each piece of foil, drizzle with olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Seal packets by bringing long sides of foil up toward centre and folding edges over a couple of times. Bring ends up toward centre and crimp foil shut.
2. Reduce grill to medium-high, place packets on grill. Place lemon and lime halves, cut side down, on grill. Close lid; cook 5 mins.
3. Drizzle olive oil over cut sides of romaine, season with salt and pepper. Open lid and use oil-soaked paper towel held with pair of tongs to coat grates. Place romaine halves, cut side down, on the grill. Cook with lid open for about 3 minutes or until the lettuce develops grill marks.
4. Remove packets from grill and open carefully (will release steam). Place romaine on platter and pour tomatoes over them. Squeeze lemon and lime halves over everything; serve.

▶ Spinach and artichokes are the stars of this dish.

Quick meatless meal

This pasta spinach and artichoke dish is so quick and easy to prepare that it can be made in the time it takes to cook the rotini.

Preparation:

1. Cook pasta in boiling water according to package directions.
2. Heat large skillet over medium heat. Add olive oil, diced onion and pine nuts and sauté for 3 to 5 minutes or until onion is cooked.
3. Add artichokes, dried cranberries, spinach, red pepper flakes and pepper. Sauté for another 2 minutes or until spinach just starts to wilt.
4. Add garlic and sauté entire mix for about 1 more minute. When pasta is ready, drain and toss with skillet ingredients. Serve sprinkled with Parmesan cheese and lemon slices.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ CATELLI

Ingredients:

- 1 375-g box whole-grain rotini
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) olive oil
- 1 medium onion, diced
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) pine nuts

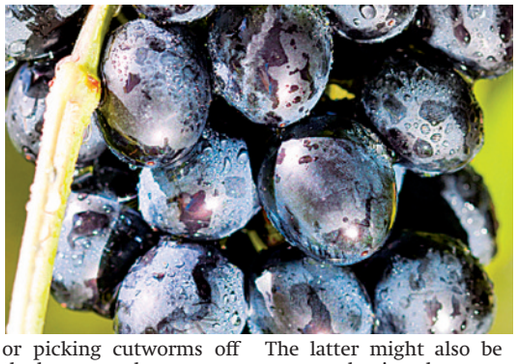
UNCORKING ORGANIC WINE

What's the difference between organic wine and conventional wine? Peter of Vancouver

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONEWS.CA

Wineries that produce certified organic wine cannot use toxic pesticides, herbicides or synthetic fertilizers to grow grapes. An organic vineyard will fertilize crops with compost, compost teas, green manure and cover crops. Instead of herbicides, they rely on mechanical weeding, mowing around the vines, mulching and companion planting. To avoid the use of insecticides to control cutworms, organic practices include grazing chickens under the vines or picking cutworms off the leaves one by one.



Certified organic wine doesn't use any genetically modified organisms (GMOs) either. GMO yeast, for example, is allowed in conventional wines. And when it comes to other additives, certified organic wines don't contain sulphites. However, wine labelled "Made with organically grown grapes" may have sulphur dioxide. The latter might also be processed using the same equipment and in the same facility as conventional wine.

So among organic wines, bottles with a third-party certified organic label would meet the highest standards. You also come across biodynamic wines. Biodynamic farming techniques use a vineyard's natural resources to cultivate grapes without pesticides, fungicides, herbicides, synthetic fertilizers or growth stimulants. A certified biodynamic vineyard often meets or exceeds the standards and regulations for organic-certified farming.

Some wineries also take land stewardship and living in harmony with wildlife seriously. They educate workers, asking them not to kill native snake species, which are often rare or endangered. They might install snake barrier fencing and incorporate worker safety training. Others restore native habitats through planting native shrubs, wildflowers and grasses or account for losing some of their harvest to local wildlife like bears.

Discovering the 'can' in Canada

Royson Ng's business success story is inspiring Canada's new citizens to dream big

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

"Canada is a goldmine of opportunity," says Royson Ng from his large corner office at Samtack Inc. Now the award-winning entrepreneur and businessman is helping other new immigrants find their turning point in Canada and is showing them by example.

When he first came to Toronto from Malaysia with his wife and young family, Royson was told "You have a degree — so what?"

He pumped gas, repaired clocks and worked at Future Shop. Within three months Royson moved into management and eight years later found himself being courted by Sammy Chiu of Samtack Inc. to take his company public.

After Royson's arrival in the corner office, Samtack's revenue soared from 20 million a year to over 400 million worldwide. Today 97 per cent of all Samtack employees are new immigrants.

"I tell them, 'You think you were very good where you came from? Well, forget it, burn the bridge and move on.' Giving money is one thing but I believe that you should also give a part of yourself. I get a lot of satisfaction from that."

Giving back to the community and to his adopted country. That's what makes Royson Ng a Canadian success story.

Welcome kit

The Association of Chinese Canadian Entrepreneur's (ACCE) New Immigrant Welcome Kit offers government, business, shopping, banking and immigration info and is available in Ontario at:

- Markham SEAS Centre
- North and South Markham Welcome Centres

Let's take this class outside

The Trees of Knowledge program is inviting Canadian schools to think outside the classroom and focus on the benefits of learning outdoors.

Schools are invited to apply for a chance to win a customized open-air classroom, valued at $20,000. This classroom, based on the school's submitted design, would consist of a landscaped, green infrastructure and could include elements like boulders, topsoil and trees.

Organizers believe the program will help foster the students' environmental ethics and improve social interactions. Deadline for application is August 12, 2011.

The program is funded by household paper product company Majesta.

Giving unto others while globe-trotting

Volunteering your services abroad can be great for the resumé, and even better for the weary worker's soul

DREW HINSHAW
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

There's no place like home, but when five unemployed folks jostle for every dismal opening, home may have no place for you — which is why job counselors suggest the quick trick to make your career take flight could be a stint volunteering on a faraway shore.

A trip spent archiving artifacts or replanting rainforests can help both the un- and un-happily employed rediscover their calling, says sabbatical coach Clive Prout.

"If you're unhappy with your current career, then use a sabbatical as a way to get out of it," he offers.

"If you leave the country, you get a sense of the things we take for granted, particularly what we use as measures of success."

Voluntourism, Doug Cutchins, author of Volunteer Vacations, says can also be a way to test-drive a new vocation, like eco-management or development economics.

ISTOCK

▶ Start out with a spot you've been aching to see, then check if there's a way you can help out in the area.

But it doesn't have to just be a break from your career, he adds — it can be a break for your career.

"Volunteer vacations could be a short-term way to get some training, maybe learn another language, and pick up skills," he says. "Really smart employers will not care so much whether you've been paid, just whether you've shown dedication, creativity, and hard work."

PUT IT ON THE RESUME

Details like time spent laboring in an exotic locale can make your resumé leap from the stack, Cutchins says — and hopefully not off the table.

The trick to leveraging a volunteer vacation into acceptable resumé material, he says is to "just focus on the skills that you gained or honed."

"It's easer to make your resumé stand out if you've taken time off to do things that you believe are going to make a difference," Prout concurs.

Then, when the interview hour arrives, "Talk about how those particular experiences are relative to the job," Cutchins adds.

Miami 'D' denies Dallas rally

MIKE EHRMANN/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Dallas Mavericks Dirk Nowitzki misses a last-second shot last night over Miami's Udonis Haslem in Dallas.

Mavs battle from 14-point deficit, but Wade, Bosh too clutch in Game 3

HEAT	MAVERICKS
88	86

The Miami Heat didn't blow this one. Now they're two wins from being crowned NBA champions.

Chris Bosh made a 16-foot, go-ahead jumper from the baseline with 39.6 seconds left and the Heat held on for an 88-86 victory over the Dallas Mavericks last night for a 2-1 lead in the NBA finals.

Recent history says this is a huge win for the Heat. The Game 3 winner in a tied finals has won the championship all 11 times since the 2-3-2 format began in 1985.

Miami got into this tight series by blowing a 15-point lead in the last quarter of Game 2. The Heat wasted a 14-point lead in this game, but went back ahead 81-75 with 6:31 left. They knew Dirk Nowitzki would drive Dallas' rally but he burned them anyway for 12 straight points.

But after Bosh's clutch shot, Nowitzki's streak ran out. He tried passing out of a double team and threw the ball away, then hit the back iron on a jumper at the buzzer.

"This is a total win," said Dwyane Wade, who led Miami with 29 points and 11 rebounds. "You want to win the game on the defensive end of the floor and we got a stop."

Bosh, a Dallas native who had been 0-for-8 in his hometown, overcame a swollen left eyelid caused by a poke during the first quarter to score 18 points. He had seven in the fourth quarter.

LeBron James added 17 points and nine assists. But he also had four turnovers, including a pair during the fourth quarter that helped bring Dallas back. Mario Chalmers added 12.

Udonis Haslem had only six points, but his tough defence on the final two possessions saved the Heat.

Nowitzki finished with 34 points, but didn't get much help. Jason Terry scored 15 and Shawn Marion had 10, but both were shut out in the fourth quarter.

▶ Rafael Nadal hits a return to Roger Federer yesterday.

Nadal bests Federer in French final

Spanish star matches Bjorn Borg with his sixth French Open victory

Regardless of the setting or the surface, Rafael Nadal confounds Roger Federer the way no other man can.

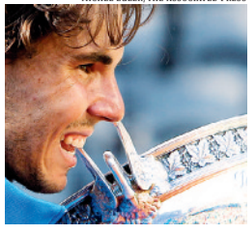
Put the two greats of the game on opposite ends of a court in a Grand Slam final — particularly at Roland Garros, on the red clay that Nadal rules — and the one-sided nature of the rivalry grows even more pronounced.

Grinding along the baseline, using every inch of his wingspan to extend points, whipping fearsome forehands this way and that, Nadal flummoxed Federer yet again yesterday in a riveting, highlight-filled match, beating him 7-5, 7-6 (3), 5-7, 6-1 for a record-tying sixth French Open championship and 10th major title overall.

"He plays better against the better ones, and that's what he showed today," said Federer, owner of 16 Grand Slam trophies. "He's a great champion, on clay, especially."

There's no question that Nadal is as good as it gets in Paris — 45-1 for his career, and the same number of titles there as Bjorn Borg — but the Spaniard already also has shown that he is much more than the King of Clay. And yesterday's victory only will raise more questions about whether Federer truly deserves to be called the Greatest of All Time if he is not even the Greatest of Right Now.

MICHEL EULER/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



"I was able to play my best when I needed my best. For that reason, today I am here with the trophy."
RAFAEL NADAL

Nadal leads their head-to-head series 17-8. That includes a 6-2 advantage in Grand Slam finals and a 5-0 edge at the French Open (in the 2005 semifinals, and the 2006, 2007, 2008 and 2011 finals).

When a reporter recited those numbers and asked for an assessment, Nadal replied: "Well, it means I can play well, too.

"When you talk about these statistics, when you try and make these comparisons, really it's not very interesting to me," continued Nadal, who would have ceded the No. 1 ranking to Novak Djokovic with a loss yesterday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thrashers GM won't make the trip north

Rick Dudley won't be part of the NHL's return to Winnipeg.

True North Sports and Entertainment confirmed yesterday that it will not retain Dudley's services as general manager when the Atlanta Thrashers relocate to the Manitoba capital next season.

The company purchased the Thrashers earlier this week and has already met its goal of selling 13,000 season tickets.

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Rick Dudley

Dudley, who was named the Thrashers' GM in April 2010, had four years remaining on his contract.

"After meeting with Rick Dudley (last) week, we have decided to go in another direction with the position of general manager of our team," True North chairman Mark Chipman said in a release. "We informed Rick of our decision late (Saturday) afternoon, and thanked him for his work in building a foundation and future for this team."

Craig Heisinger, the general manager of the American Hockey League's Manitoba Moose, is expected to be a key piece of the NHL club's front office. When sale of the team was announced, Chipman said Heisinger would play a "significant role."

Chicago Blackhawks assistant general manager Kevin Cheveldayoff has also been linked to the club.

True North did not say who will be in attendance on the team's behalf at the NHL's GM meetings Wednesday in Boston.

Bruins sticking to their game plan

After making the long trip home yesterday, the Boston Bruins didn't walk off the plane with a long list of changes or adjustments planned.

Instead, their strategy for getting back into the Stanley Cup final against the Vancouver Canucks was to stick with what got them here. Facing a virtual must-win Game 3 tonight, the Bruins were looking to embrace the energy of playing on home ice — they're 7-3 at TD Garden during this post-season — while continuing to ride Zdeno Chara and Tim Thomas.

Those two men were both beaten by Alex Burrows before he brought a quick end to overtime in Game 2. Thomas was caught out of his goal as Burrows outraced Chara to score on a wraparound, but the Bruins goalie scoffed at the notion he might want to tone down his aggressive style.

"I have a pretty good idea of how to play goalie," Thomas said yesterday. "I'm not going to be taking suggestions or advice at this time. I'm just going to keep playing the way I have."

There was more than a hint of defiance from the Eastern Conference champions, who clearly feel unlucky to be trailing the series 2-0 after a pair of one-goal losses.

Coach Claude Julien came to the defence of both Thomas and Chara, the towering six-foot-nine defenceman who had a tough outing in Game 2. The Bruins captain is averaging more than 28 minutes per game in the playoffs and shouldn't expect to see that workload eased any.

"Where we are right now, we have to look at it this way: He's got all summer long to rest," said Julien. "Now is not the time to start giving him a rest. We're in a fight here for a Stanley Cup.

"He's capable of taking it."

Julien hinted at needing to make a few small "corrections" before the puck is dropped for Game 3. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lind makes up for lost time

Reyes gets second straight victory after 28 consecutive winless starts

It didn't take long for Adam Lind to find his swing for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Playing in his second game since returning from a lengthy stay on the disabled list, Lind went 4-for-4 with two homers and three RBIs to carry Toronto past the Baltimore Orioles 7-4 yesterday.

Lind missed nearly one month with a sore back before being activated from the DL Friday night.

"When you look at today's game, it looks like he hasn't even missed any time," Toronto manager John Farrell said. "What a beautiful swing ... He was on every pitch today."

After going hitless Saturday, Lind singled twice and hit solo homers in the fifth and seventh innings yesterday.

"I felt good today. I didn't miss my pitches," Lind said. "It was just nice to feel good all game."

Yunel Escobar also homered and Edwin Encarnacion had three hits for the Blue Jays, who took two of three from the last-place Orioles.

JAYS	ORIOLES

Baltimore has lost seven of nine since reaching the .500 mark May 26. Mark Reynolds hit his second homer in two games and Robert Andino had two of the Orioles' six hits.

Jo-Jo Reyes (2-4) allowed three runs and five hits in 6⅓ innings. The left-hander walked four and struck out three.

Orioles starter Jeremy Guthrie (2-8) yielded six runs and nine hits in five innings. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shaman

I have been a very hardworking man, since six months ago I started feeling very weak, also red spots appear on my legs. Doctors could not discovered the reason for my mood and my physical condition, but with the first consultation with SHAMAN trough the tarot and palm reading, I realize the reason. I was under the influence of witchcraft which pretended to paralyze me, now I am free from any curse, thanks SHAMAN. LEO VIDAL

I HAVE THE SECRETS AND PRAYERS TO WIN IN THE GAMES. I SHOW YOU THE FACE OF YOUR ENEMY, TAROT, RUNAS, CARACOLES.

Send a KISS

You can now post your kiss, and read even more kisses, online at metronews.ca/kiss.

M, The night you told me you've never loved anyone the way you loved her, that she was the one that got away, if you only knew how much that mirrors how I feel about you. It crushed me to hear it, but I swallowed the pain and pretended not to care. Just as I pretended to move on, but I could never move on from you. I love you so much and I'm working on getting us back to that happy place we once were. You're my blessing, my miracle. I can only hope that one day you'll see in me what I see in you.

Barbie , NO NO NO I won't go !!!! Am happy here with MY darling wife! KISS GOODBYE will always care but no more secrets no more lies no more tries
